

DECISION SCOPE

Where CEOs and Boards Gain
Role Clarity, Confidence, and Cohesion

The Challenge

When roles are blurry, tension builds.

Why It Matters

Unclear decision-making is costly and time-consuming

On average organizations spend 37% of their time on decisions, with over 60% of that time perceived as wasted

Studies show that 50% of employees lack clarity on their roles

Inefficiencies can cost a company with 100 employees more than $450,000 annually, all linked back to unclear decision rights.

Organizations that use scenario planning are 2.5 times more likely to avoid major financial losses

When it's unclear who has the authority, decisions stall in endless debate and escalation. Without clear ownership, time is wasted, accountability blurs, and momentum is lost.
